Addison and Vicinity Folks To Entertain Fresh Airs

Committee seeks homes for children from metropolis for two weeks in July—Addison had 19 last year —An opportunity to help poor children and form friendships.

Addison and vicinity people are again being asked to become "Friendly Towners" and admit young boys and girls from the slums of New York to their homes for a two weeks' vacation of fresh air and sunshine and friendliness.

The exodus of thousands of children from the metropolis to homes in Maine to Virginia is in sharp contrast to forced exodus or evacuation of cities of Europe.

These children are chosen by the New York Herald-Tribune from thousands of needy cases in New York on the recommendations of social workers in the Jewish, Protestant and Catholic welfare agencies in the metropolis. Each child is given three medical examinations before leaving New York.

The Addison committee has chosen the period from July 6 to 20 in which to entertain the children here. Each community may have as many children as desired.

Persons wishing to be hosts to children for this all-too-short two weeks may have a choice as to nationality background, a choice as to the age of the child desired from six to 14 and either boys or girls and practically any religious preference. The agencies in New York select only children who came from families in need, this in spite of the fact some children try to give the impression they come from homes of plenty.

Last year Addison entertained 19 children and it is hoped that with the great desire to help European children in need, that the American children will not be forgotten. Interesting experiences and friendships develop out of these summer vacations and usually several children are adopted by their summer hosts. Last year there were 30 adoptions out of the 130,000 children sent into the country and cities outside New York.

The Rev. Mabel Johnson and the Rev. A. S. Taylor head the committee in Jasper with Mrs. Elroy O Hannahs, the Rev. John V. Axtell, the Rev. Mondula C. Johns, the Rev. Nicholas Van Cossaboon, Mrs. Francis Hill and Harry Mullen heading the Addison committee. Anyone desiring a child or information is asked to communicate with a member of the committee.

D. D. Doddato Opens New Shell Service Station

Dominick D. Doddato will have a formal opening of the Addison Shell Station Friday and Saturday of this week. Employees of the Davis Construction Company have been busy for the past six weeks building a new station and the electric work has been done by the Barkalow Electric Company of Addison.

The former station, a one-room affair of brick was torn down to make way for this spacious new structure of stucco done in modern style and coloring. The ground about the building has been landscaped to make a greater approach and accommodations for more cars. The whole creates a pleasing effect and adds much to the appearance of that section of Main street.

Dominick Doddato, the proprietor, was graduated from Addison High School in June, 1931 and in September of that year went to work for the Shell Oil Company and has been with the company since that time.

The new building will have accommodations for servicing a car as a hydraulic lift has been installed. There is a front office with ample room for a large inventory of supplies, a motor room, lavatories for men and women and the work-room for cars. Here on neatly arranged tool racks will be an ample supply of equipment to do a service job completely and in a hurry.

In addition to the regular line of station supplies, Mr. Doddato will be equipped with tires, tubes, batteries, battery cables, spark plugs, wash rack and all sorts of greases, oils and gas supplies.

A new line of supplies for household use will be carried including furniture polish, fly spray, glass cleaner, spot remover, floor wax and other household products.

Uniform Price Of $1.58 For May Milk

New York, June 17 — Producers who delivered milk in May to handlers under the Federal-State orders for the New York metropolitan marketing area, are to be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $1.58 per hundredweight for 3.5 per cent butterfat content milk received at plants in the 201-210 mile zone from New York City, N. J. Cladakis, market administrator, announced today.

"The uniform producer price for May delivered milk, calculated under the terms of the Federal-State orders on the basis of handlers' reports showing their receipts and utilization of milk, is approximately 12 cents per hundredweight higher than the price which would have existed had not amendments to the orders become effective May 1", Mr. Cladakis said. "These amendments modified the class price for milk and also important experience and changes in market conditions. The benefits of these amendments to the orders are being reflected directly to producers in full, and indirectly to consumers."

The May producer price of $1.58 is, under the Federal-State orders, based on Class I, or fluid milk, price of $2.45 per hundredweight, a Class II-A, or fluid cream, price of $1.65 per hundredweight, and the following prices for each of the remaining eight classes which represent the value of milk used for various manufactured products: Class II-B, $1.391 per hundredweight; Class II-C milk, $1.341 per hundredweight; Class III-A milk, $1,336 per hundredweight; Class III-B milk $1,291 per hundredweight; Class III-C milk, $1.032 per hundredweight. Class III-D milk, $1.066 per hundredweight; Class IV-A, 99.1 cents per hundredweight, and Class IV-B milk, $1,032 per hundredweight.

Milk received from producers at plants located in zones nearer or farther than 201-210 mile zone from New York City, is to be paid for at the uniform price plus, or minus, differentials for location. Differentials for butterfat content above, or below, 3.5 per cent are also required to be accounted for by handlers in their payments to producers.

REGRETTABLE ACCIDENT

Community sympathy goes out to the parents of James Coon who suffered untimely death in an accident at the B. & O. creek bridge last week. Their loss is doubtless on of the most poignant experiences of parents—the loss of a child growing towards maturity with all the promise of life ahead. Nothing can ever make up for this loss from which time may deaden, yet never fully remove the sting.

It is one of the tragedies of summer that the lure of cool water and the pleasure of a trip to the swimming hole so freqently end in accident, death and heartache. Hundreds of Americans lose their lives in swimming accidents yearly which are as certain to come as the warm weather.

Larger communities have tried to eliminate most of these accidents by building artificial pools where youths and older people as well seek relaxation with less danger to life. Yet even in these communities there are frequent swimming accidents as youths seek greater aquatic adventures than are offered swimmers dipping into a pool shared with dozens of other swimmers and life guards.

The B. & O. swimming hole has always been a great hazard to life and the surprising thing is that so few accidents have happened there. Boys screaming in excitement at the swimming hole are prone to forget that trains though infrequent do come along, and many times there are narrowly averted accidents. The fact trespassing on railroad property is forbidden does not seem to deter children from going to the bridge to swim.

It is to be regretted there is no place in Addison where boys and girls can swim with reasonable safety. It is out of the question for this community to finance the erection or operation of a concrete swimming pool. But it might be possible to obtain a power shovel and scoop out a pool in the creekbed near the school which would provide safer swimming as long as the creek kept fresh water flowing through it. Such a pool would be temporary and would probably have to be revamped every summer to remove gravel certain to be deposited in it at flood times.

The depth of such a pool could be regulated so there would be a shallow section for the younger children. It would be imperative that some form of supervision be arranged probably by volunteer effort. Such a project well planned and executed would have the blessing of every parent in the village, and give considerable relief to non-parents who do a lot of worrying about other people's children when they are heard screaming in the B. & O. swimming hole and perched on the bridge above as a railroad train comes rolling along.

UNSELFISH SERVICE

This community suffered a grievous loss in the death last week of Miss Fannie E. Curtis. A brief obituary of Miss Curtis was printed in the last issue of this paper but a life such as hers cannot be bid farewell without the writing of a few more words of tribute to one who lived abundantly because she lived for the uplift and advancement of others.

Hers was truly a life of service. Descended from pioneer American stock, born of parents respected in this community she spent her girlhood days in these pleasant surroundings and graduated from the local high school. One wonders what Miss Curtis might have selected for a life work had she been born three or four decades later, for there was no choice in 1884. If a girl wanted a career she practically had to become a school teacher, yet we like to think Miss Curtis would have become a school teacher even though she could have chosen an occupation from the wide range of choices presented a girl today. She was this kind of a school teacher—one interested first and last in what she could do with the materials that came to her hands. She was concerned first in what she could MAKE of the children who passed through her room, and second what she could teach them of textbook knowledge. As a teacher she was a great success.

Some of her success came from broadmindedness. Some sprang from her ability to win the confidence of children so they could express themselves. Some came from her innate unselfishness.

One day the superintendent of schools of East Orange came to Miss Curtis when the teachers' contracts were being made. He said, "Miss Curtis, we have an extra one hundred dollars in our budget this year. I know you deserve that hundred dollars more than any teacher in our schools, but Miss Blank needs more money this year. What shall I do?" Miss Curtis answered him without hesitation, "Give it to Miss Blank, for she does need the money".

A majority of persons living in Addison now did nor know Miss Curtis intimately during her teaching days as most of her work was done in another state. However, she chose the wise course of retiring from the school room while her health and faculties were unimpaired and this decision gave us the benefit of gratuitous service in many ways of one richly blessed with the ability to contribute to the civic life of the village. During these years many who have worked with her on various projects have been repeatedly impressed with her will to make the most of every opportunity of serving fellow humans in truly Christian manner. Practically every civic project here enlisted her aid, and received it. Her life these last years was a glowing example of the good one person can do when they are blessed with both the time and the inclination to render civic service.

Miss Curtis has passed to her eternal reward but the monument she erected—unselfish service—will live long after her.

A FEARSOME HOUR

The overwhelming defeat of the French armies brings us forcibly and unpleasantly to confront dangerous eventualities. The French and British leaders as well as the nationals of those countries never for a moment believed Hitler could so quickly and so completely crash through the defenses of the French on continental Europe. Hence their mutual security was almost completely reflected in American thinking. Having watched the even struggle between the two forces in the World War we Americans could not visualize either side striking a devastating blow in a short campaign.

Now we have seen the thing happen which looked like a remote, yet black possibility. Where three weeks ago American public opinion was strongly opposed to our participation at any stage in this war, except through sale of war supplies to the Allies, today it must be admitted there are many Americans advocating complete cooperation with Britain. Such opinion is even held by persons who are non-militaristic in viewpoint. They have swung to this way of thinking because they seem to visualize a Germany triumphant would be a Germany as ruthless in peace as in war—they see a Germany so nationalistic in viewpoint that this country would be forced to beg for crumbs of world trade which might fall from the totalitarian tables of Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin.

Unfortunately our country is prepared to give little present aid to Britain aside from a trickle of war materials, even though we should rashly declare war against the aggressor countries. We say "unfortunately", yet the word does not indicate the belief thorough preparation for war would have brought us into the fighting instead of sitting scare-eyed on the edge of the conflict as we are today. We have spent billions for defense purposes over the period of several years, yet when we find our mechanized equipment includes only about a dozen small tanks one is forced to the conclusion that most of this money has been poured down rat holes.

What are we going to do now? Are we going to allow the rapidly growing war spirit to push us immediately headlong into another European conflict?.

We hope not. First because our attempts to send soldiers to Britain might be a liability in the present stage of fighting, instead of an asset. Second from the humanitarian angle that some nation must keep its head level and its feet on the ground for several months to feed much of the population of France that will face starvation in the wake of the scourge of the war. And for the third place we must put our own house in order economically, politically, industrially and militarily as well as in the building of national morale to cope with the present emergency.

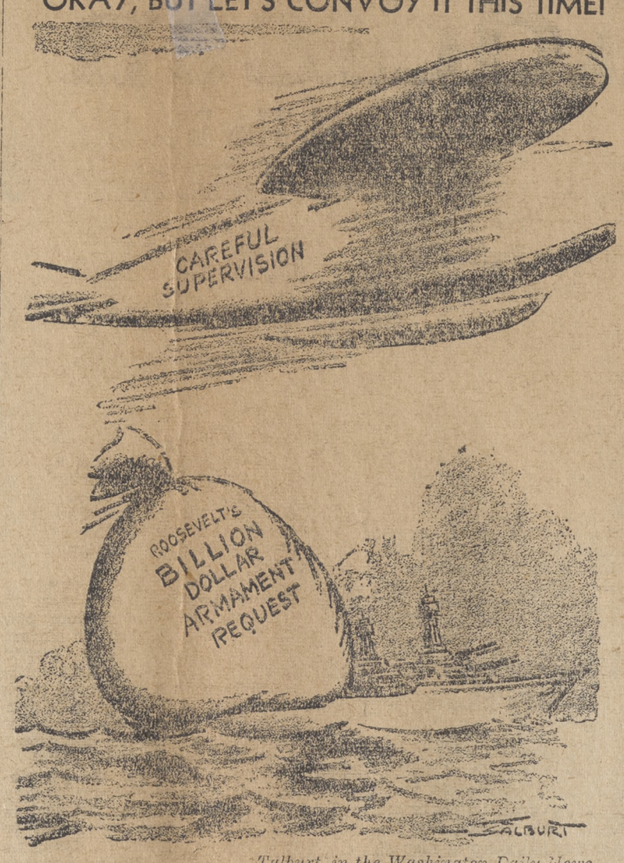
As the first step in national unity the President should renounce his ambition for a third term, that the question of planned dictatorship should not arise. Both major parties should nominate the strongest executive in their ranks and both should declare the policy of drawing a cabinet from the ablest members of both parties with Mr. Roosevelt holding the portfolio of secretary of the navy. Labor should be canvassed to find the skilled craftsmen of all kinds and provide the jobs they are best adapted to do. Laws which allow either capital or labor to limit production should be abolished for the term of the emergency. Government payrolls should be purged of every person who adds to the public expense without corresponding need for the job done. Red tape should be cut which restricts production of planes and other war implements.

Britain should be supplied with every war material needed even though we release some of our army planes not long in service. Training should be extended to thousands of young men in areonautics who should be made free to enlist abroad during the emergency without loss of citizenship.

Finally, if the totalitarian powers obtain a substantial part of the French fleet we should lease from Britain the great naval base at Singapore. We should move a large portion of our own fleet to the base and thus release all of the British fleet for Atlantic and Mediterranean duty.

These steps might lead us into eventual war. And on the other hand they might lead us into the position of arbitrating peace by means of our very invincibility. America wants no conquest—only the right to live as a free country among nations of free people. This is a fearsome hour for peace-loving people.

OKAY, BUT LET'S CONVOY IT THIS TIME!



Talburt, in the Washington Daily News.

The Rambler

Perry police decline to make tipsy driving arrests. Failure to get convictions causes police to substitute public intoxication charge where tipsy motorists are concerned". That was a two-column heading on a story in the Perry Herald last week. The police there contend that juries will not convict drunken drivers and so feel that it is no use to bring in such charges. Juries will not wake up probably until someone is killed by a drunken driver and then it will be too late.

—o—

This leads me to the observation that Mr. John Q. Public is the promoter of lawlessness. By the lack of nerve and failure to convict and lack of interest in proper police work causing police departments to fall down. The continual decay of the police work is then apparent in major crimes and when the public wakes to what they have been doing, the lawless element is in charge of politics and everyone pays tribute. I hope such a condition as is occurring in Perry never comes to Addison.

Arthur W. Banfield, head of the Banfield - Jennings Corporation, which sells animals all the way from a canary almost to an elephant, tells me that a man called the other day and wanted 50,000 cockroaches.

Mr. Banfield was somewhat indignant but considerably curious. He said his establishment did not keep cockroaches and would not traffic in them even though there was a demand, which there wasn't. He asked the man why he wanted 50,000 cockroaches.

"Well, it's this way," answered the man, "I am removing from the house where I have lived for sometime and in looking over the lease I find that I must leave the house in the same condition in which I found it."

Two deaths during the past week have particularly saddened the Rambler. The first was the death of Miss Fannie Curtis and the second was that of Scout James Coon. I had the pleasure of working with Miss Curtis in Red Cross work and observing her on the Board of Education and feel that in her passing Addison has lost one of its finest, sacrificing and unselfish citizens who gave thought to others before self during her sufferings during the past three years.

—o—

The week-end of the Boy Scout camporee I had the pleasure of camping at Bath with Jimmie Coon. He knew nature as few Boy Scouts. He was a living example of the Scout oath and law in all its parts. And then to think of his death in an accident on the following Thursday leaves me moved deeply. To the bereaved parents I believe I express the sympathy of the entire community in the death of their 15 year old son.

Congratulations and many thanks to those householders and property owners who have repaired the walks in front of their buildings and made the walking thereto more comfortable. I'm sure they have the thanks of many others who use the walks also.

Mrs. Rambler was graduated from Cornell 10 years ago and so we had an opportunity to go back to Ithaca the past week-end and renew acquaintances made in school. It was an enjoyable occasion "high above Cayuga's waters." Like most reunions, it was not the event itself but the renewing of acquaintances and the personalities present that meant so much. It appeared that there were 34 of the class of 50 years ago present.

Attention of parents is called to the warning advice against trespassing on railroad property. Like most catastrophes, it seems that humans could have prevented unnecessary loss of life had they stopped to think and taken proper precautions. Vacation time is coming and children will be free for several hours daily. There is necessity for pointing out the vacation dangers from traffic, swimming and other dangers, not by a series of "dont's" but in education.

Emery Chase of the Goodhue writes to tell us he has a great deal of rhubarb growing in his yard and anyone desiring to have it may take all they want of it.

Ed Wade of Passaic feels that I need a car to travel about in and so sent me a magic key which gives me an opportunity to win a car, when and if I attend the World's Fair in New York this year. Thanks for the key, Mr. Wade, but I'm afraid I spent all I had at the fair last year and won't be able to get down this season. Anyway I'll keep the key as a memento of what might have been.

1940 Life — Evolution of Printing

FIVE HUNDRED YEARS OF PRINTING

Long before the Christian era, phonetic writing became the next step in the story of the recorded word. Symbols, now, instead of representing ideas, stood for sounds. Thus ancient man, attempting to write a new or unfamiliar word, the chemical term "mannite" for example, would use the ideographic symbols "man" and "night". It can be easily seen that if the symbol for "man" could be used for the sound man, it could also be used for the same sound in such words as mankind, manage, manicure, and so on. The system of phonetic writing was slow in developing; there was "special privilege" then and now. Keepers of the art of writing were largely priests and aristocrats who were not anxious that the miracle of writing be revealed to the common people. Both the Egyptians and Babylonians were highly skilled in the use of phonetic writing.

About 3,500 years ago, another insight came to man, the realization that the spoken language actually had a minimum number of different sounds, and that, by combining in various ways symbols for these few sounds, all the words of his language could be easily written. By this simplification, there evolved the alphabet. The Semitic alphabet is considered to have been the first. Modified by the Phoenicians, it was adopted by the Greeks, undergoing further changes it finally became the Latin alphabet, from which have come most of the alphabets in use today in our modern world.

Clay tablets, papyrus, linen, silk, vellum and parchment were men's writing materials. It was, however, the invention of paper as a writing material, by the Chinese in A. D., 105, that gave printing its initial impetus.

During the "dark ages" books were laboratory written by monks and scholars in the seclusion of the church. Interestingly enough, the beginning of printing is in the Orient. The first printed books were produced in China in the 4th century called "block books"—printed from wooden blocks on which text and illustration had been engraved.

(Next week, the fifth article of this series, we will tell how Bible stories were popularized with a first glimpse of Gutenberg.)

COMMUNICATION

TO THE RAMBLER:

During the past two or three weeks several articles have appeared in various publications which should be of intense interest to every American citizen. Some of these may have gone unnoticed. Others were in smaller publications which may not reach the general public. But all of them are of value.

The first of these related how a group of Nazis were traveling in one of our western states. Suddenly the car drew up and the passengers gave the Nazi salute to the road sign which they had espied. It bore the NAZI swastika! The authorities "thought it an Indian peace sign." Why was it not discovered sooner that the Nazi emblem was being used?

The second told of a group of Nazis spreading Nazi propaganda literature in a small town in Texas. When the authorities apprehended them and ordered them from the town, the Nazis threatened to return with re-inforcements! How could they dare make such a threat?

The answer to both of these questions probably might be found in the records of the Dies Committee. But to all America should come the consciousness that many of our people are closing their eyes to the fact that our country is over-run with anti-American sympathizers who shade from the palest pink to the deepest blood red. There are in our midst many who are ardently pro-Nazi. Herr Hitler's "Fifth Column" of which we read is not confined to Europe or Canada. We have no way of tracing all of these enemies, so must seek another way of combating the threat of evil presented by them.

In a tiny publication of this state there is a most interesting article entitled "Is Hitler a Madman or a Tool of Satan?" In this article a quotation is made from an unexpurgated edition of Mein Kampf as follows:

"4th That the State is supreme and that a lie on behalf of the State is justified if it brings results which are to advance the interest of Nazi Socialism.

"5th That the State is supreme and that the Church is subordinate to the State."

If this be true, "a lie on behalf of the State is justified," how many of the recently naturalized Germans are really Nazi "Fifth Columnists"? Where may we find security for our freedom and peace? and if "the State is supreme and the Church is subordinate to the State," how secure is our personal liberty in religious life? Can we find safety in an active participation in this maelstrom of war which seems to be sweeping over the world? No! a thousand times no! The answer to this question is to be found in the last two sentences of an editorial published in the Advertiser on May 16, entitled "The Imponderable." The author said, "We in America should not be deceived into thinking our debt to society can best be paid by rushing into this conflict. Our greatest contribution to civilization will be to put our house in order and help bind up the world's sores when the war is ended."

There are those in our country who seem to be striving to bring a panic and hysteria of war upon us. The road of "Panic and Hysteria" can only lead us to defeat. All thought of our participation in war should be banished to the farthest reaches of our thoughts. This does not mean that we should carelessly neglect proper preparation for protection in case of attack. Nor does it mean that we should close our eyes to the seriousness of the situation. But it does mean that we should not be hypnotized or stampeded into becoming hysterical over the present condition of world affairs. Instead, let us thoroughly re-arm ourselves in preparation for any and all sources of attack.

In our re-armament we must not place undue emphasis upon munitions and airplanes or other armaments of war. While these are important and necessary, it is more important that we should have a very real spiritual re-armament. The Rambler, in his article on religion in the May 16 issue, made a very keen presentation of the real need of our country today.

America has been putting her interest and emphasis upon every phase of our national life except the side of religion. He said, "The remark is made that 'the church is failing'." If the church is failing it is because the people who make up the lists of our church members are failing in their obligation to the church. The church is only as strong as her adherents. Go into any one of our churches and list those present at the services. You will find a large percentage of them are not members of that particular church, and perhaps are not members of any church. In one church which lists a resident membership of 102, the pastor feels flattered if he faces a congregation of 75 of whom at least 25% are non-members! Where are the remainder of the members? They are at home making garden; or painting the house or barn; or doing the week's washing; or reading the Sunday newspapers; or cooking meals for and entertaining a houseful of company; or cutting hay; or sowing wheat. Or, they may have taken a carload out for a picnic; gone to the movies; gone to some resort for the day; fishing; golfing, etc. They are any place but in the House of God worshipping Him and teaching their children to worship Him! This condition is not localized to Steuben County, New York State, or any one particular church. The condition is general all over the United States, and in all denominations. America needs spiritual rearmament even worse than she needs military rearmament.

The reasons which some people give for not going to church are but shallow excuses which reveal the real cause of the breakdown of the religious life of America. It is the fact that "church" people no longer have their God as the center of their worship. With some branches of religious service it is the ritual or service of the church

WASHINGTON NEWS

With a speed that is seldom shown even in connection with matters of great importance, both Houses of Congress yesterday afternoon and within a period of a few hours passed a measure which would have permitted Finland to postpone the annual installment on its war debt to us. This was prompted by the widespread admiration this nation has for the only national debtor which has not defaulted on its payment to us. Having suffered great losses and expense in connection with its struggle with Russia, it was felt that this postponement would ease the burden of that great little nation but the press this morning announces that Finland will carry on and make its payment in accordance with the terms "of the bond."

Earlier in the year the Congress authorized the transfer of the bronze statue of Chief Justice Marshall from the west terrace of the Capitol to the grounds of the new Supreme Court building. Another bill has just been signed authorizing the purchase of a bronze replica of the George Washington statue executed by J. Q. A. Ward and now on the steps of the sub-treasury building in New York City at a cost of $15,000 which will take the place vacated by Marshall.

In an unprecedented move, the House has passed by a vote of 330 to 42 a bill ordering the immediate deportation of Harry R. Bridges, C. I. O. maritime labor leader. The measure, first on record to require the ousting of a particular individual, swept through the House with apparent ease in spite of the charges that it is unconstitutional Senate action is now necessary and the outcome uncertain.

Having heard from the folks back home in such tremendous volume it is now practically certain that the Congress will not adjourn on the 22nd as recently suggested by the President. It appears that the country feels safer in these days of uncertainty over our part in the war if the Congress is in session so that expression of public sentiment can quickly and effectively be made. The rumored plan now is for both the Senate and the House to recess for a week for each of the national conventions.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation reports that it is receiving three thousand fifth column complaints daily. The Attorney General has warned individuals and groups against allowing their zeal or patriotism to prompt them to probe independently subversive or spying activities and also declared that it is important that "civil liberties of loyal, innocent individuals be not invaded."

Expressing the feeling of first generation Italians in this country over Italy's untimely participation in the war, comes this letter to me which says in part: "Whatever may be the outcome of this war, you may rest assured that my family and I are thoroughly disgusted with the action as taken by Italy, and realizing the respect we have and obligation we owe to the United States and the freedom which we may have to fight for, you are assured that we endorse the policy of President Roosevelt as stated in his Charleston address of last evening."

Silver Jubilee of Rev. Patrick Kelly Observed at Banquet and Tea

Banquet in Eagle and American House after solemn high Mass in St. Catherine's at 11 o'clock—Catholic Daughters serve tea at parish house — Many relatives and friends attend functions.

Parishioners and friends from many places paid tribute to the Rev. Patrick A. Kelly on the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the Catholic priesthood Sunday. The Rev. Fr. Joseph E. Guilfoil of Corning preached at the 11 o'clock high Mass, giving some of the highlights of the career of Father Kelly and spoke on the priesthood.

The celebration of the annoversary began with this anniversary Mass in St. Catherine's Church at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Kelly was celebrant and he was assisted by his nephew the Rev. Joseph Kennedy of Buffalo as deacon and the Rev. John A. Smith, Corning, as sub-deacon. St. Catherine's Church was beautifully decorated with many flowers given by parishioners, relatives and friends. Music during the Mass was under the direction of Mrs. Edward Skelly, organist with vocal selections by Mrs. Michael Brennan, Mrs. Skelly and John Croft.

Relatives, friends and parishioners joined in paying tribute to Fr. Kelly at a banquet after the Mass. Dinners were served in the Eagle Hotel and in the American House with the honor guest taking part at both places. A general spirit of merriment prevailed in both places as the diners joined in song and story.

Father Kennedy acted as toastmaster and he read telegrams from Postmaster General James A. Farley, United States Senator James Mead of Buffalo, Governor Herbert H. Lehman and the Rt. Rev. James E. Kearney, Bishop of Rochester, who was unable to be present owing to confirmation services and regrets from Archbishop Thomas F. Hickey, St. Joseph's Mother House Rochester, who ordained the Rev. Kelly.

Priests at the speakers table at the banquet were: The Rev. Hugh Kelly of Blossburg, Pa., the Rev. William Canaan of Hammondsport the Rev. Arthur Smith of Elmira, the Rev. Altar boys guests of Father Kelly were: John Troy, Leo Coleman, Lawrence and William Murray, Thomas Flynn, Thomas Knebel and Bernard Reagan.

Mrs. Martin Train, grand regent of St. Catherine's Court, Catholic Daughters of America was in charge of the program for the silver tea in the parish house from 5:30 to 8:30 Sunday evening. The women realized $76 from the tea according to Mrs. Train.

Anniversary cakes were given by Mrs. Thomas Driscoll, sister of Father Kelly and by Mrs. Train. The cakes were decorated in purple and gold. Reagan Brothers provided music during the afternoon as did Miss Eleanor Maloney of Madera, Pa. She also accompanied Mrs. Brennan and Mrs. Skelly in vocal solos and duets.

Nuns were also guests at the parish house durig the dinner and tea. Sister Marie of the Order of St. Joseph in Rochester, and sister of the Rev. Kelly was present with Sister M. Borgia of St. Cecelia's convent, Elmira, Sister M. Arthur of St. Vincent de Paul's convent in Corning, Sister M. Madelina of Rochester, and Sister M. Sucersu of Corning.

Mrs. Sollinger's Death Shocks Community

Few in the village knew that Mrs. Edward Sollinger was ill and when news of her death came Monday afternoon, June 17, it was a distinct shock to her many friends. She had been ill but a few weeks and at no time was she considered in serious condition. Death came from complications.

Effie Mae Shirey was born April 20, 1880, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shirey in Mariasville. She attended school there and remained there until her marriage to Edward E. Sollinger on March 11, 1898. They made their home in Emlenton, Pa., for several years.

Five years ago they came to Addison and since then have made many friends here in many spheres of activity. They conducted a dairy and tourist cabin project in the eastern end of the village formerly owned by William E. Durkin.

Mrs. Sollinger was jolly company and an excellent entertainer. She often entertained Grange members with humorous readings and also appeared on various programs in the Methodist Church. She was active in both groups. In addition she was teacher of the Philathea Class of the Methodist Church.

She leaves her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Robert Groce, Front street five sons, Raymond and Edgar of Emlenton, Merle of Lancaster, Pa., Conden of Emlenton and Cortland of Lancaster; also a brother Harry Shirey of Sheffield, Pa. She also leaves six sisters, Mrs. A. D. Moore of Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. L. E. Short, Wilkinsburg, Pa., Mrs. Arthur Provost, Pittsburg, Mrs. Frank Pfaff and Mrs. William Boals of Emlenton, Pa., and Mrs. Chester Kelly of Wilkinsburg, Pa.

Prayer services were held in the home Wednesday night and today, Thursday the body will be taken to Emlenton funeral services in the Emlenton Methodist Church. Burial will be in that community.

which is the center of the whole church life; with others it is the music; with still others it is the sermon, or even the minister. Only when we put GOD at the center of all of our religion and religious life will we have the proper response to our church services. So long as a man, a sermon, a ritual, or a musical program is the principle factor in our religious service, just so long will that service fail to meet the real soul need of America's religious life.

If it is true that one of our states' highways are plastered with Nazi swastikas; if a car load of Nazis may give a Hitler salute to these highway signs; if alien enemies can organize under the name "Christian Front" to tear down American ideals; if the "Fifth Column" has a strong stand in America (as it has been claimed); if we have "Reds" of all shades,—and who can confidently deny that any and all of these things are so?—surely our frail human intelligence and hasty military preparations are not sufficient to cope with the dangers which lie all round us. Only the power of the Almighty can reach out and stop these ravages of war.

But we cannot utilize this power if we are not intimate with the Source of the power. We cannot be intimate with Him who is the Source if we do not study His word, meet Him in His house of worship, and keep our religious life warm with constant contact with Him. WAKE UP, AMERICA! Return to the God of your fathers! Fill the churches of our land,—not to hear a sermon, or participate in a ritual, or listen to beautiful music,—but come to your church,—the church of YOUR choice, meet your God in His house, offer to Him the sacrifice of praise and prayer and worship Him with all your soul, and heart, and mind according to His command. In this course only lies our safety and our victory.

The Advertiser apologizes for its inadvertence.

June Dairy Month Throughout Nation

New York, June 3—New York is playing a leading role in June Dairy Month, as the state's annual milk production is valued at around $135,500,000.

"On January 1, there were 1,437,000 milk cows reported in New York valued at $112,086,000", says the Milk Industry Foundation in a statement urging nation-wide support for the Dairy Month campaign. Production in 1939 equalled 3,472,000,000 quarts.

"New York is a very important state to the dairy industry", the Foundation declared, "and this June program will benefit consumers by emphasizing the food value of milk and dairy products, and enable producers and distributors to promote increased demand for excess farm milk production.

"In addition to fluid milk which brings the farmer his highest price, New York in 1938 produced 15,596,000 pounds of butter, 84,656,000 pounds of cheese, 38,769,000 gallons of ice cream, 221,841,000 pounds of canned milk, 68,381,000 pounds of dry or powdered skim milk.

"In 1938 milk accounted for more than 46 per cent of the total income from all farm marketings, excluding government payments, and was the largest single source of cash farm income in the state. Milk income was over 1½ times the income from all crops and more than 66 per cent of the cash income from all livestock and livestock products.

Estimates for the nation as a whole show that milk production on farms this June will reach a new all-time peak. Last year June farm production in the U. S. totaled 5,332,000,000 quarts of milk".

TO PLAY FOR ALUMNI DANCE

Andy Grillo and His Band

Andy Grillo and Band to Play For AHS Alumni Dance

The Addison High School Alumni Association will present its annual dance in the high school auditorium on Wednesday evening, June 26. The dance will be semi-formal and will be held from nine o'clock until one, daylight time.

This year the dance committee has been extremely fortunate in securing the services of what is probably the outstanding dance orchestra of the Southern Tier—Andy Grillo of Hornell and Rochester. This group has attained notable success and recognition in recent months, having played at Elmira College, Geneseo Normal, Alfred University and in Elkland, Westfield, Bath, Canisteo and other nearby places. There are thirteen pieces in the orchestra, which is noted for its pleasing type of music, since it is willing to play numbers suited to the mood of the dancers. Arrangements by such well-known bands as Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller, Count Basie and Jan Savitt are featured. The vocalist, Paul Rittenberg, is especially talented in singing popular tunes, and the leader, Andy Grillo, will be remembered for his clever interpretations on the trumpet.

The gym will be attractively decorated, the theme of the dance being "The Starlit Hour". There will be an advance sale of tickets, and the committee feels that with the innovation of a higher class orchestra the dance will be an outstanding success.

Wheelock to Die Week Of July 29 for Murder

Governor Herbert H. Lehman will hear a plea for clemency on July 1 when attorneys will be in Albany. Attorneys W. Earle Costello and Alton Wightman represented Wheelock and District Attorney George A. King represented Steuben County. The execution date was set for the week of July 29 . There will be an unofficial sanity commission and if their findings are such that official opproval is necessary, a formal commission is empowered to make examination at which the defendant may be represented. These preliminaries are expected to be completed before the hearing.

Norman J. Wheelock, Prattsburg, convicted slayer of Evelyn Reed, Penn Yan school girl, is scheduled to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison the week of July 29 according to word received by District Attorney George A. King. The prison warden will set the exact date in that week. The State Court of Appeals upheld the decision of the lower courts in this conviction. Executive clemency is the only thing which can save Wheelock now.

Steuben Farmers Tour to Bison City

Steuben County farmers visit Buffalo for the sixth annual tour on Friday, June 28, to study one of the major industries of the metropolis of western New York, and to cruise Lake Erie.

Dinner will be served aboard the flagship of the Detroit & Cleveland Steamship Company, and later the party inspects the boat, the largest in the world to sail on fresh water.

The party then board a boat for a cruise to Crystal Beach, Canada, and return to Buffalo later in the afternoon.

Bus transportation will be provided from all parts of the county, for which registration is to be made at the Farm Bureau office not later than June 20.

Merchants Trim Corning Cubs

The Addison Merchants showered the Corning Cubs under a barrage of hits Sunday afternoon in Corning and returned on the long end of a 10 to 2 score. Louie Dominick pitched the opening frames for the winners and was later relieved by Heidrick. The Addisonites scored two double plays to prevent intended rallies on the part of the Cubs. The winners scored 12 hits while the losers were being held to a scattered five. The Cubs' two runs were scored in the seventh inning while the Merchants scattered theirs in the fouth, fifth, seventh, eighth and ninth.

Heidrick hit two for four times at bat as did Andy Dominick. Willis and Louie Dominick also hit two each in five trips to the plate. Andy and Louie Dominick each hit two-baggers as did Russ Wade and John Grange. Louie Dominick's other hit was a three-bagger with no one on the paths.

Sunday the Merchants play away from home at Lindley.

Housing Tour Drew Crowd

The tour planned recently by the Steuben County Home Bureau to show the results of many home improvement projects proved popular with homemakers of Steuben, and the neighboring counties of Allegany and Livingston. It was difficult to make a definite check on the exact number but between 250 and 300 attended part or all of the tour stops.

Much credit goes to Mrs. William Rowe of South Hornell, whose home was the first tour stop. Everyone was amazed to know of the many improvements she had made thruout her home during the past two years, doing practically all of the work herself. After the crowd had left her home she laughingly said that she had not realized just how much she had done until she began checking over all the things she wanted to tell the tour visitors.

Some of the work that Mrs. Rowe has completed includes refinishing of chairs and reseating with rush, splint, and cane; refinishing an old fashioned parlor suite and reconditioning it throughout, putting in new webbing, springs, padding and upholstering; refinishing the library floor; planning and arranging a storage closet for greater convenience; and general rearrangement of furniture in two living rooms. Not satisfied with working in the front part of the house, Mrs. Rowe has made some improvements in her dining room dish cupboard and is starting work on her kitchen. Tour visitors were not only impressed with what Mrs. Rowe had completed but also with the fact that she has a long time plan with many other improvements to be made gradually as time permits. Mrs. Rowe was assisted in hostessing by Mrs. Fred Parish, Mrs. John Mehlenbacher and Miss Ida Denison.

Mrs. Charles Gates of Arkport was the next hostess and although the visitors were originally supposed to see just her improved kitchen she, too, had gone on and done more work. In the kitchen the visitors enjoyed her interesting color scheme, saw how worn floor covering may be painted, thereby prolonging its life and usefulness, and were introduced to a kitchen cabinet with personal variations to suit the homemaker's needs. As the visitors left Mrs. Gate's home they saw a desk and table which are in the process of refinishing, and a large braided rug which is almost completed.

Mrs. John King's home on Grove street, Arkport, is a good example of careful planning. Tour visitors knew from Mrs. King's enthusiasm that she enjoys her home and has a good time making plans for her family's comfort. Over a year ago Mrs. King applied a dye coat to her parlor rug because she wasn't quite satisfied with the colors that it originally had. In spite of the wear of over a year the rug still looks well and Mrs. King says she thinks it will be worthwhile to give it another "dose" as there is lots of wear left in it yet. The children's play room down stairs has been repapered and a curtain put up in front of the storage closet. The Home Bureau Unit rearranged the living room so satisfactorily that it has stayed just that way ever since.

Mrs. King was so interested in these other changes that she began thinking over possibilities for making a greater amount of wall space in her dining room. Here Mr. King was a valued ally as he had been interested in all the other work she had done and now they planned together. The pass cupboards which originally had come through from the kitchen were closed on the dining room side. This gave them the needed wall space. The dining room was then repapered to harmonize with the living room into which it opens with a double door. The Kings are also working on a long-time plan for landscaping their yard.

The luncheon stop was made at the Union Church in Howard. With such a crowd to feed it was a working example of how efficiently the remodeled kitchen was functioning. Tour visitors here also had a chance to visit at the Howard library in the town hall before they left for Hammondsport, the next stop.

Mrs. Bernard Robinson explained to her tour visitors that their home on Sheather street had been a "real flood house" when they bought it two years ago. Inside it was cut up into small rooms with every ceiling a different height. Outside the yard was mostly gravel and stones left by the flood waters with a few weeds, that had managed to survive, growing here and there. Many people, on leaving Mrs. Robinson's home, expressed the feeling that when they went into her living room it seemed like such a welcoming place. It gives a feeling of spaciousness, is light and pleasant, and yet the furnishings of warm colors make it very homelike. Visitors could hardly believe that the plot at the rear of the house could have undergone such an amazing change in such a short time. It is now laid out as an outdoor living room and garden spot terraced in two levels. It is inclosed with shrubs and was a riot of beautiful flowers. It was interesting to watch the visitors who had left by the back door coming across the fine new grass of the lawn stepping very gingerly hoping they would not injure that nice green ground cover.

The total number of visitors at the last home was practically the same as at the first home which showed that each stop had been so interesting that none could bear to leave and go home early. This final stop was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Joint on Orchard street in Savona. Here there were so many things to see that it is impossible to list them all. The whole thing started eight or nine years ago. Since then Mrs. Joint has constantly been working and planning, accomplishing a few things each year and the final total is very lovely.

The built-in book case in her living room adds charm and its just-right painted lining fills the whole room with warmth and cheer. Mrs. Joint has completed one braided rug for her down stairs den and is planning to make another to go in front of the fireplace in the living room. In her dining room guests saw that her home was not her only hobby for on top of the old-fashioned chest is the beginning of a collection of antique glass which Mrs. Joint proudly explained was completely catalogued.

As guests went on to the kitchen they found that here was a room that was not at all antique. It is brand new from top to bottom and combines attractiveness with convenience. Another special feature of the house is the laundry back of the kitchen with its outside door from which the laundry can be easily carried out and hung up.

As guests left they saw the results of out-door planning, for several years ago Mrs. Joint had a landscape conference and has since transferred her flowers to border plantings leaving a spacious lawn space.

Many thanks are due the hostesses who generously opened their homes for this tour and spent a large part of the day in explaining their work to the guests. Much credit is due Mrs. Arling Cobb of Greenwood, a member of the executive committee of the Steuben County Home Bureau, who sponsors the home improvement work done in the county. She worked with Mrs. Ruth Comstock, housing specialist, from the College of Home Economics, in planning and arranging for the tour.

Don't Knock the Carrier

When the mail is late on the rural routes, the RFD patrons, almost without exception, at once place the blame upon the carrier. And which I have found out IS WRONG. These carriers themselves, seldom, if ever, offer any satisfying alibi or explanation for the delay—may be they cannot spare the time to do so; and the misery—the ill feeling for this fault continues; and the carrier is wrongfully condemned.

I, too, as a rural patron, fell into this error recently along with many others. And last Saturday, as the mail was nearly an hour and a half late, I took it upon myself to express in no uncertain or very complimentary terms my opinion of the service. And though I regret my unjustified censure of the carrier for a supposed neglect of business, I DID learn this fact: that when a supposed fault exists in anything, it is best to come out in the open and have a "show down" of the matter from the top to the bottom, thus to 'clear the atmosphere', which I did. And I got "licked", so to speak. And I found out that the reasons for such delays are no fault in any way of the carrier nor of the local service. Let others now learn the facts—for many are still wondering, no doubt as to these unpleasant delays; and, like myself, feeling that they want to 'jump on somebody' for the error. And here are the reasons:

Go write them on your heart;
And make them of your daily life a part!

The Addison postal service, including the RFD is betwixt and between the old or slow time of the train service and the daylight saving time adopted by this community. And they have to contrive in every possible way to coordinate the two, in the interest of us all. They are doing their best and do not deserve our censure. When an extra heavy mail comes in, with many registered letters, this throws a vast amount of extra work upon all the workers here and which help is limited in the interest of national economy. Sometimes the trains are late, too, along with the rest. And the village service must have equal consideration. We in the country are only a part of the whole; and all must be treated equally. Hence occasional delays.

This, I write in penance for the error of myself and many others along the route, who criticise our rural postal service.

4-H Clubs Organize For Softball League

Boys' 4-H Clubs of the county are showing a great deal of interest in the organization of a soft ball league. Seven or eight different clubs have already organized 4-H Club soft ball teams with captain and manager elected. These include clubs from Presho, Woodhull, Kanona, Cohocton and Arkport.

Any other clubs interested in being a part of the league should write to the 4-H Office of their intentions as soon as possible.

James Coon Died Saturday After Fatal Dive Thursday

Freeman youth receives broken neck in quick dive into Tuscarora Creek from railroad trestle — Rescued by companions — Boy Scout troop mourns active member—Funeral Tuesday.

James Coon, 15, died Saturday morning, June 15, 1940 in the Corning Hospital where he was taken Thursday night after a dive into Tuscarora Creek which broke his neck in two places.

Jimmy was swimming in Tuscarora Creek in the vicinity of the B. & O. trestle over the Tuscarora Creek. With him were Junior Wilson, Merle Robbins and Francis Wright, all members of Troop 27 Boy Scouts. The last named three were swimming in the water and Jimmie was about to dive from the bridge when the late afternoon train came into view. The young man did not wait to reach the edge of the trestle, but dove down thru the steel work, striking the bridge in several places. It was believed that he was knocked out for his body plummeted to the bottom of the creek where he alighted on his head.

Junior Wilson noted the fact James did not come to the surface immediately and called to his companions and they pulled James to the west shore of the creek under the trestle and started artificial respiration. Junior Wilson ran across the fields to the home of Principal Irving R. Gladstone from where help was called, by Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone and Richard and Margaret Gladstone.

Shortly after the inhalator donated by the Women's Civic Society arrived with Fire Chief John O'Keefe and Lewis E. Handy, Welles Hose Company president. They administered first aid and used the inhalator which helped revive James. Physical Education Director William J. Miller and Bernard Wilson of the high school faculty worked hard to give the boy every chance for life.

James complained at the time that he could not move his arms and legs and it was believed the shock was responsible for that. The services of a local doctor could not be secured as both were out of town. Dr. Henry E. Elwood of Corning was called and when he arrived ordered the lad taken to Corning Hospital. Harry Mullen, a Boy Scout leader, went in the MacDowell ambulance with Jimmie, remaining with him until the family arrived.

The critical condition was discovered by X-rays. His condition became worse early Friday morning and he remained that way until a late hour Friday morning. During Friday he rallied some.

The body was brought to the home in Freeman where funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. Mondula C. Johns of the Addison Baptist Church, officiating.

James was born in Elmira, April 4, 1929 a son of Hobart and Edna Reynolds Coon. He attended school in Elmira and Ithaca and four years ago entered Addison schools when his parents bought a farm in Freeman.

Since that time he has been active in the Boy Scouts and in Freshman class activities. At the time of his death he was assistant scribe in the troop.

In addition to the parents he leaves two brothers, Edward and John, both in the United States Army, a sister, Mrs. Catherine Brewer in Watkins Glen and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Coon and Mrs. Bessie Reynolds, all of Freeman.

Funeral services were held at the home in Freeman Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. Mondula C. Johns of the Addison Baptist Church officiating. The Rev. Johns is also Scoutmaster of the Boy Scout troop of which Jimmie was a member. The Rev. David H. Davis, Wodhull Assistant Scoutmaster of Woodhull was also present as were 2 1Boy Scouts of Troop 27.

A prayer service was said at the grave by the Rev. Johns. Several school friends of the lad's viewed the remains at the grave. Bearers were members of Troop 27. They were Matthew Whitmore, Richard Gladstone, William Murray, Burdette Rice, Marvin Ricker, Walter Perkins, Hubert Dininny and Vernon Mose.

Fancy Ice Cubes

The convenience of all-metal ice trays makes the freezing of all kinds of plain and fancy ice cubes a distinct pleasure.

Beside the usual cubes made from plain water—lemon juice lemonade, grapejuice, in fact any fruit juice or pure fruit flavoring desired can be frozen quickly in the ice trays. These tasty cubes make nice additions to fruit drinks . . . and the children will enjoy them just as they do teir regular frozen confections.

If you have a favorite recipe — please send it along. Contributions to this department will be welcomed.

FRUIT NOG USES DARK MOLASSES

"Come back to our house" is a pleasant suggestion when the day is warm and everyone yearns for a cool drink and a snack.

You can extend such an invitation, if you want to do a bit of planning, ahead of time. Serve a fresh fruit drink, always refreshing and nourishing, too. And with it, offer a sweet that is different.

Here's a recipe for orange nog—we bet you never tasted anything quite as good—and another for molasses pecan brownies. These are particularly well adapted to each other—truly a memorable combination for a hot day.

Orange Nog

4 tbsp. pure New Orleans molasses
2 cups orange juice
1 quart milk

Add molasses to chilled orange juice, and stir. Pour slowly into milk and mix thoroughly. Serves six.

Molasses Pecan Brownies

⅞ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup pecan meats
1-3 cup butter
1-3 cup powdered sugar
1-3 cup pure New Orleans molasses
1 egg

Sift flour, measuring and sift twice with salt; lightly mix in broken pecan meats, reserving a few whole nuts for decoration. Cream butter and sugar thoroughly. Blend in molasses and well-beaten eggs. Add dry ingredients and mix well. Place dough in a greased 8-inch square pan, arrange pecans in rows on top of dough. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.), for 20 minutes. Cut in small squares.

STUFFED TOMATOES WITH ANCHOVIES

Six Servings

6 medium size tomatoes
1 bottle anchovies in oil
4 hard cooked eggs
1-3 cup mayonnaise
parsley

Chop anchovies into small pieces. Add finely chopped eggs and mayonnaise, mixing well together. Scald and peel tomatoes. Scoop out centers and fill with anchovy mixture. Cover with pieces of tomato cut from the top and garnish with quarter of lemon and small sprig of parsley. Place in refrigerator to chill before serving on crisp lettuce.

DRIED BEEF GETS ORIENTAL FLAVOR

An old favorite comes back today, silghtly Oriental, yet typically American. Oriental because it's served chop suey style, and American because it's really creamed dried beef.

But there have been some changes made. The modern creamed dried beef has been pepped up by grated onion, chopped pimiento and chopped sweet pickles.

To Make It Slightly Different

Cut ½ pound dried beef into small pieces. Slowly brown the meat with 1 cup grated onion in 3 tablespoons hot bacon drippings. Stir in 3 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon pepper; add 3 cups milk, simmer 5 minutes longer, stirring constantly, then add ¼ cup chopped pimiento and ½ cup chopped sweet pickles.

The pimiento and chopped pickles not only add tastiness but bright color as well.

Of course, you'll like it over baked stuffed potatoes.

An Asset to the Emergency Shelf

Dried beef can be bought by the pound or in containers. Thinly sliced, it lends itself well to many occasions. It is particularly good in a cream sauce for its high seasoning wards off blandness.

Dried beef is a good addition to your emergency shelf, but you won't keep it on the shelf long—it will come to the rescue in too many perplexing situations. It is ready to eat you know too, so incorporating it into any cooked dish is a simple matter taking very little time.

MACARONI WITH HAM

Four Servings

¼ cup bread crumbs
1 cup hot milk
3 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup chopped, cooked ham
1½ cups hot tomato sauce
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
2 eggs (beaten)
salt
2 cups cooked macroni
1 teaspoon minced onion

Mix crumbs and hot milk. Add to all of the remaining ingredients except the tomato sauce. Place in a baking dish and bake in a moderate oven of 375 degrees F., for 45 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE SALAD

six servings

½ cup celery
½ cup raw carrots
1 cup shredded pineapple
1 package lemon gelatin
1½ cups boiling water

Drain the pineapple. Chop the celery and grate the carrots. Then combine ingredients. Add boiling water to gelatine and stir until dissolved. Allow to cool. Then add ingredients and pour into individual molds. Place in refrigerator to chill, or until mixture has congealed. Serve on crisp lettuce with creamed mayonnaise. The servings can be made more attractive by using pastry bag. Time can be saved by pouring the mixture into a freezing tray and allowing to chill until it is completely congealed, but not frozen. Then cut in squares and serve as suggested.

SALAD DRESSING

(Oil and Cook Dressing)

1-3 cup flour
3 tablespoons butter
1 cup hot water
3 egg yolks
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup salad oil
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar

Blend flour and butter and add hot water. Cook directly on range until mix becomes quite thick, stirring continually. Put remaining ingredients in mixing bowl and pour white sauce in bowl and beat until all ingredients are combined thoroughly and mixture is smooth. Place in closed refrigerator dish. This will keep as long as desired.

Steuben Farmer No Toreadore, Builds Safety Bull Pen

Bull fighting is a national sport in Spain, but Steuben County farmers with no desire to emulate the doughty toreador, have constructed safety bull pens for the safe and secure confinement of the herd sire.

So built that the bull can be handled without coming into personal contact, the pens are designed to protect the handler from injury by the dairy bull that each year causes a greater loss of life and limb than the ferocious tiger and all the wild beasts of the jungle.

Still another advantage of the use of mature bulls that transmit safety bull pen is that of keeping older herd sires. Not until the daughters have come into milk can the value of a sire be determined, and progress in the breeding of dairy cattle is dependent upon the high production.

Built according to plans furnished by the Farm Bureau and made for the most part of home grown timber, the exercise yard and safety bull pen are of simple and inexpensive construction.

Farmers in this vicinity who have constructed safety bull pens are: E. C. Smith, C. A. Stewart & Son, Thomas Kane & Sons, Leon Andrews, Robert Andrews and F. & M. Kane of Addison; Harry Sanford, Thurston; Floyd Crandall, Cameron; Robert Dann and A. E. Scudder, Painted Post; Leo Gorges, Lindley; A. H. Olmsted, Woodhull and Leonard Hollenbeck of Jasper.

Your Child's Safety Against Trespassing on Railroad Property

Walking along or taking a short cut on the railroad right-of-way is not trespassing, at least that is the mental attitude many thousands of people seem to have. Railway tracks are regarded as a sort of public property, to be used promiscuously and freely when the occasion warrants, and this in spite of the fact that in the last 38 years 156,000 trespassers have been struck and killed by trains. Of this great army, 35,000 were children under 14 years of age and 46,000 were between the ages of 14 and 21.

Now that summer vacation time is here the responsibility of each parent is doubled. During the winter and spring the youngsters spent a good part of their day in school, safe from accidents and the hazards of pranks, but during the summer months it is the parent who must shoulder the responsibility of their children's safety.

Trespassing accidents can be entirely eliminated by teaching children the simple expedient of not going onto the railroad tracks or on railroad property when it is not necessary to be there. Every community served by a railroad or railroads has personally known of the happening of this type of accident, resulting in the death or serious injury of some boy or girl, and not infrequently men and women. It is a needless sacrifice.

It is believed that instilling in the minds of these young people the need for proper care against avoidable accidents, will carry a message with a lasting effect which will bear fruit not only now, but also in the future years, and be reflected in fewer accidents of all kinds to the citizens of various communities. Early impressions are the ones that influence later life.

The railroads and the police departments are doing their best to stop trespassing and thus prevent this awful and wholly useless loss of life. Won't you help? Here is what you parents, teachers, editors and public-minded citizens can do to save children's lives. Preach the Gospel of Safety.

1. Do not walk on railroad tracks or bridges.
2. Do not allow children to play around railroad tracks or stations.
3. Do not crawl under or between cars.
4. Before crossing tracks or crossings, Stop, Look and Listen to see if a train is coming, and after train has passed make sure no other trains are approaching in either direction.
5. Do not crawl under crossing gates when they are down. Stop until train passes.
6. Do not allow children to play around turntables, cranes, cars or other railroad property.
7. Use the streets and highways instead of the railroad tracks.
